

Millennium Development Goals Performance Tracking Survey – 2015

By Peter Cunliffe-Jones

09:15 | 4th November 2015 (GMT)

The set of eight MDGs, which were set at the turn of the century and expired this year, included three health metrics: reduction of child mortality, lowering maternal mortality, and combating HIV/Aids, malaria and other diseases. The performance tracking report constitutes the second attempt by Nigeria to objectively measure progress towards these and other measures, using data from every state in the country.

Got a claim for us to check?

Is there a claim that you would like us investigate?

Has a politician, a business or union leader, a health association or environmental group said something that you suspect is untrue or misleading and that should be challenged.

We cannot investigate every claim sent in to us. But we will log all suggestions and appreciate your help.

We hold public figures accountable

For democracy to function, public figures need to be held to account for what they say. The claims they make need to be checked, openly and impartially. Africa Check is an independent, non-partisan organisation which assesses claims made in the public arena using journalistic skills and evidence drawn from the latest online tools, readers, public sources and experts, sorting fact from fiction and publishing the results.
