...line while ignoring the people deeper in poverty. Nevertheless, setting a poverty line has been a common practice in estimating poverty. Poverty in most poor countries is often closely associated with hunger. There are two methods to define a food poverty line. The cost of basic needs method calculates poverty lines by estimating the cost of a typical food basket. The basket consists of adequate food required to satisfy minimum calorie intake (2,100 calories per day), and some non-food essentials such as clothing and shelter. However, the typical basket...
